PREFACE.

THE Author's aim, in preparing the present volume, has been to provide the English student, at a moderate price, with a Dictionary which would enable him to read, not only Arabic books of a limited vocabulary, as the Qur'ân, or of a comparatively easy and familiar style, as the Arabian Nights; but also such other standard works of a wider etymological range, as the Ḥamâsah, the Mu'allaqât, and, above all, the Maqâmât of al-Ḥarîrî, which may, with the late Mr. Chenery, be aptly designated as a "Compendium of the Arabic Language" in all its intricacies and niceties. The difficulty of such an undertaking lies in finding the golden mean between a merely alphabetical arrangement, which would swell the book into an inordinate size, and a strictly etymological disposition under roots, which would, undoubtedly, be more to the taste of the scholar, but frequently embarrass, and hence discourage, the learner whom we want to aid in his first steps on a journey sufficiently toilsome in itself. An endeavour of this kind has been made by Prof. Cherbonneau, in his Arabic-French Dictionary, and, on a far more extensive scale and in a superior manner, by Dr. Adolf Wahrmund, in his Manual Dictionary of the Arabic and German Languages; and these two works, especially the latter, checked by, and occasionally enlarged upon from the Muḥîṭ (an Arabic Dictionary, published in Arabic by Dr. P. Bustânî in Beyrout), form the groundwork of our own book, with such modifications and additions, however, as to secure for it a fair degree of originality.

We are now going to set forth, as briefly as can be done compatibly with clearness, the general plan on which this Dictionary is worked out. The Arabic words are given in their crude form, i.e. the form in which they appear before the grammatical terminations are added, and in Arabic type only as far as they are represented by the letters of the alphabet, leaving the rendering of the diacritical signs, Hamzah included, to the transliteration.* Thus each word forms, as it were, a skeleton, dead and meaningless in itself, but moved into life by the Ḥarakât (vowel-points), and further to be individualized, as of Arab kin by the I'râb (grammatical inflection). To every male, if I may be allowed to continue the metaphor, its consort is allotted, that is to say, under each heading the form or forms with the feminine termination ة are subjoined to those without it, if both are in use. This has been done, because frequently the two forms stand mutually in the relationship of singular and plural, and therefore, by bringing them together in the same article, many cross-references could be spared.† In a similar way derivatives with a final ى, especially when forming the so-called Nisbah or noun of relation (in يّ), are, as a natural offspring, joined under the same heading to the parent-form, but only, if the alphabetical order would already bring them in immediate contact with it (see e.g. article خيال ḫayâl, &c., p. 347).

Roots, whether triliteral or quadriliteral, are found under two headings. One, placed in parentheses, gives the primitive verbs in the third person singular masculine, together with their Infinitives, and the Infinitives of the derived conjugations. In triliteral verbs the medial vowel of the

* The student, when about to make use of this Dictionary, is of course supposed to be well acquainted with these signs from his Grammar, and should his text be pointed, he will have no difficulty in finding the equivalent in transliteration, for any word he may look out, by referring to the heading in Arabic type. If, on the contrary, these signs are omitted from the text, as is always done in editions printed in the East (for instance, in the Arabian Nights, which he is particularly expected to read), it would be decidedly more bewildering for him to pick out from perhaps half-a-dozen or more repetitions of the same group of Arabic letters, variously marked, that special combination which he wants; while, by using the one heading, which represents the letters in his book, as a master-key for the different meanings, his eye has simply to run over the article in order to ascertain that particular form which gives an appropriate sense to the passage in hand.

† If in the first part of an article ة is placed after a generic noun, it indicates either the female or the noun of unity; if after an adjective, it stands for the feminine. In the second part, the various forms are given in which a word has a feminine termination without such reference to sex or gender, and here the ة heads the transliteration. (Compare e.g. the articles اسد asad, ة, "lion," &c., p. 41; ثمر samar, ة, "fruit," &c., p. 209; حار ḥârr, ة, "hot," &c., p. 258; خلف ḫalf, "behind," &c. — ة ḫilfa-t, "difference of opinion," &c., p. 337.)

Aorist is added, if it differs from that of the Preterite. Where therefore no such vowel is mentioned, the vowel of the Preterite is retained in the Aorist, which is frequently the case if it is a, rarely if it is i, but always if it is u. The second heading comprises those simple Derivatives, either nouns or adjectives, which do not exceed in number the original letters of the root.*

Derivatives which are formed by the introduction of so-called servile or additional letters, and the various measures of the broken Plural, are to be looked for in their natural alphabetical order, where their meanings or reference to the singular is given, unless they can be readily traced back to their respective origin by eliminating such additional letters according to a few simple rules of easy application. In order to impress these rules more effectively on the mind of the student, and to facilitate reference to them in case of need, we will divide the words in question into four classes, namely:—I. Words containing a letter of prolongation (ا — a, و — u, ى — î) or a doubled consonant; II. Words beginning with the letter ا; III. Words beginning with the letter ت t; IV. Words beginning with the letter م m.

I.—Words containing a letter of prolongation or a doubled consonant. In Derivatives or Plurals of this description, not found in the Dictionary, or only rendered by meanings which do not fully meet the requirements of the case, these letters are to be thrown out, to obtain the root, or the singular, if it is a plural noun; thus:—

1. ا — in words of the measures

فاعل fâ'il, the well-known form of the Agent or active participle, "who does."

فعّال fa''âl, where also the double consonant is to be rejected, or in other words, the Taśdîd to be removed, intensive of the former, "who does frequently, habitually, by way of trade."

* It is true that, by the arrangement explained in this and the previous paragraph, sometimes different roots or their derivatives are thrown together under the same heading: under the heading عد for instance, we give, besides 'add and 'idd, belonging to the root (عدّ), also the word 'udd, "pustule," apparently itself a root, and under the feminine form عدة we include 'ida-t, "promise, threat," derived from the root (وعد). But this very juxtaposition of disparate meanings will strike the attention of a thoughtful student, and continually remind him, that in Arabic, more than in any other language, very similar forms may have a vastly distinct origin.

فعال fi'âl, Infinitive, exceptionally of the primitive verb (in which case, however, it will be found as a reference in its alphabetical place), regularly of the third conjugation, along with the more frequently used measure مفاعلة mufâ'ala-t, "doing with regard to another, doing reciprocally on the part of two or more." Also Plural of nouns of the measure فعل fa'l, fi'l, fu'l, and its feminine form in ة.

فعلاء fa'lâ', feminine of the measure افعل af'al, forming adjectives of defect and colour (see Class II.).

Lastly, in Plurals of words which consist of four or more letters, either originally, or through the introduction of servile letters into triliteral roots. These plurals are trisyllabic, with a (—) after the first, â (ا —) after the second, and i (—) after the penultimate consonant. If all the letters of the singular are radical, the measure is—فعالل fa'âlil, where the second l corresponds to the fourth and following consonants of the singular; and if the singular is quadriliteral, it will be obtained by dropping the ا of prolongation of the plural; otherwise it will be referred to in the alphabetical place of the latter.*

The plural measures of words of four and more letters, reducible to triliteral roots, are—

افاعل afâ'il, plural of nouns, or of certain other plurals beginning with ا, or of adjectives of the measure افعل af'al used substantively (see Class II.).†

تفاعل tafâ'il, plural of تفعلة taf'ila-t, Infinitive of the second conjugation, mostly of verbs terminating in a weak consonant (see Class III.).

فعائل fa'â'il, not given in the Dictionary amongst the alphabetical references when it is plural of فعيل fa'îl or فعيلة fa'îla-t (the

* The plural دراهم dirâhim, for instance, is not mentioned, in the alphabetical order, because the elimination of the ا points to the singular درهم dirham, name of the well-known coin; but سفارج safârij is quoted as plural of سفرجل safarjal, "quince," عنادل 'anâdil as plural of عندليب 'andalîb, "nightingale," because they do not contain all the letters of their respective singulars.

† For instance: اصابع aṣâbi', plural of اصبع aṣba', 'iṣba', "finger"; اكالب akâlib, plural of اكلب aklub, plural of paucity of كلب kalb, "dog"; اداهم adâhim, plural of ادهم adham, "very black," used substantively for a black horse, or for the chains of a prisoner. Throwing out the Alif of prolongation you obtain the heading under which the wished-for information will be found.

elimination of the ا leading to the singular), but inserted as a reference if the singular has â (ـَا) or û (ـُو) after the second radical.*

فواعل fawâ'il, plural of فاعل fâ'il, and much more frequently of its feminine form فاعلة fâ'ila-t. Here the ا of the singular has been changed into و before the ا of prolongation of the plural, and would have to be restored after throwing out the latter; practically, therefore, the rule takes this shape: Suppress the و of such a plural, instead of the ا, to find the singular as given in the Dictionary, or as to be further derived from the verbal root according to the direction in the beginning of this Section.†

All these plurals, except فعائل fa'â'il, have parallel forms with î (ـِى) instead of i (ـِ) in the third syllable, corresponding to a long vowel in the second syllable of the singular. If the latter be â or û, the plural is given as a reference in its alphabetical place; if it is î, such reference could be dispensed with, as here again the simple rejection of the ا leads to the singular.

2. و as letter of prolongation is to be thrown out in words of the measures

فَعُول fa'ûl, intensive of the Patient, rarely of the Agent, and فُعُول fu'ûl, Infinitive of neuter verbs (also فعولة fu'ûla-t), or plural form of nouns.

* We omit, for instance, the plural قصائد qaṣâ'id, as a reference to the singular قصيدة qaṣîda-t, "poem," but we give رسائل rasâ'il as plural of رسالة risâla-t, "mission," &c., and حلائب ḥalâ'ib as plural of حلوبة ḥalû-ba-t, "milch-camel," for the reason stated in the text.

† In the opening lines of al-Ḥarîrî's first Assembly we meet with the expression طوائح الزمن ṭawâ'iḥu 'z-zamani, which the Commentators explain by حوادثه وقوادفه ḥawâdiṡu-hu wa qawâẕifu-hu. Dropping the و in these three forms we obtain the Agents or participles طائح ṭâ'iḥ, "perishing," حادث ḥâdiṡ, "happening, befalling," and قاذف qâẕif, "flinging, casting," of whose feminines the said forms would be the regular plurals. But the native dictionaries, speaking of the term طوائح, tell us that it belongs to the نوادر nawâdir, or rare exceptions (plural, on the same principle, of نادرة nâdira-t, "anything rare"), its singular not being طائحة ṭâ'iḥa-t, according to rule, but مطوحة muṭawwiḥa-t, feminine of the Agent of the second conjugation, "that which casts about." Hence we give it in its alphabetical place, with the meaning resulting from the explanation of the Commentators, "impelling calamities," or, as Chenery translates it in the quoted passage, "the shocks of the time," while the forms ḥawâdiṡ, qawâẕif, and nawâdir could be passed over, as easily re-traced to their singular.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

3. ى as letter of prolongation is to be thrown out in words of the measures

فعيل fa'îl, intensive of the Agent, rarely of the Patient, and—
فعّيل fi''îl, where also the Taśdîd is to be removed, with the same meaning more forcibly expressed.

In this place may further be mentioned the final ىٰ — (a) of the measure فعلى ful'a, fem. of the comparative form افعل af'al (see Class II.).

II.—Words beginning with the letter ا. This class comprises words of the measures أفْعَل af'al, f. فعلاء fa'lâ', forming adjectives of intransitive verbs, particularly expressive of defect or colour.

أفْعَل af'al, f. فعلى fu'la, which forms the comparatives and superlatives of any adjective, not belonging to the previously mentioned measure.

أفْعُل af'ul, one of the so-called plurals of paucity.

افعال af'âl, another plural of paucity, but common to plurals of multitude also, and therefore of very frequent occurrence.

If any word of this kind is not found in the Dictionary, the dropping of the initial ا (in the last-named measure, together with the rejection of the Alif of prolongation), will lead at once to the verbal root, from which the meaning may be gathered, if it is an adjective, or to the singular, if it is a plural noun. The two plurals of paucity (af'ul and af'âl) may form a new plural of their own of the measures افاعل afâ'il (also occasionally plural of the comparative), and افاعيل afâ'îl respectively, as has been mentioned under Class I.

To this Class belong further the Infinitives of the derived conjugations from the fourth upwards, except the fifth and sixth, all beginning with ا i, and having an Alif of prolongation after the last letter but one. The root of such an Infinitive will most easily be found by changing it into a so-called Infinitive in Mîm, and applying to it the rules for words beginning with that letter, as will be explained under Class IV.

III.—Words beginning with the letter ت. This Class contains the measures تفعلل taf'alul, Infinitive of the second conjugation of quadriliterals.

تفعيل taf'îl, تفعلة taf'ila-t, with their respective plurals, تفاعيل tafâ'îl and تفاعل tafâ'il (see Class I.), Infinitive of the second conjugation of triliterals.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

تفعّل tafa"ul, Infinitive of the fifth, and—

تفاعل tafâ'ul, Infinitive of the sixth conjugations of the same.

By cutting off the initial ت ta, and throwing out a letter of prolongation or a double consonant, where such appear, the root is obtained, under which the Infinitive in question, with its different meanings, will be found.

IV.—Words beginning with the letter م m. The initial, not radical, م of words belonging to this Class may be read with a (Fatḥah) or i (Kasrah), in which case it is followed by a triliteral root, frequently with a letter of prolongation in the second syllable, or it may be pronounced with u (Ḍammah), when it forms participles and verbal nouns of quadriliterals, and is mostly accompanied by one or several more servile letters. We will therefore consider them under two heads, making henceforth use of dots to indicate the number of radical letters occurring in a word, as has been done all through the letter M in the Dictionary. It must, however, be remarked, with regard to the transliteration in Roman character, that only consonants and long vowels—which in Arabic contain a quiescent weak consonant—are reckoned to be letters, while the short vowels, as merely represented by orthographical signs, do not count as such; قال qâl, for instance, would consist of three letters, but قُل qul only of two in the eyes of an Arabic grammarian.

1. The measures of the form . . . م, i.e. consisting of a triliteral root, preceded by initial ma or mi, are—

مفعل mif'al and مفعلة mif'ala-t, noun of Instrument.

These form their plural in مفاعل mafâ'il, which could be omitted from amongst the alphabetical references, as simply the elimination of the ا would lead to the singular. The noun of Instrument, however, takes more frequently the measure مفعال mif'âl (. ا . . م), with the plural مفاعيل mafâ'îl, and if such a singular is given in the Dictionary, the plural will also be found with a reference to it, as here the dropping of the ا in the plural form would leave it still undecided whether it belongs to the singular مفعال mif'âl, or to either of the last two measures to be mentioned in this Section, viz.:

مفعيل mif'îl, a rare form of the intensive Agent, and—

مفعول maf'ûl, the regular form of the nomen patientis (Patient) of the transitive triliteral verb.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

The plural of the latter (of the measure مفاعيل mafâ'îl) is quoted in its alphabetical place, for the reason stated above, but not that of the former, because here the removal of the ا suffices to find the singular.

2. The second category of words belonging to this Class are all Participles, nouns of Place or Time, and nouns of Action or so-called Infinitives in Mîm, and have the general form — مُ, i.e. the initial syllable mu is followed by an indefinite number of letters, from three to five, which, if not quiescent, are pronounced with a (Fatḥah), except the penultimate, which takes i (Kasrah), if the word is an active participle (Agent). At least three, frequently four, of these letters, are radical, as will be seen by comparing the different measures with the more general symbols included in parentheses. These measures are—

مفعل (. . . م) muf'il, Agent, muf'al, Patient, noun of Place or Time, and Infinitive in mîm of the fourth conjugation of a triliteral.

مفعّل (. . . م) mufa''il, Agent, mufa''al, Patient, &c. of the second conjugation of a triliteral.

مفاعل (. . ا . م) mufâ'il, Agent, mufâ'al, Patient, noun of Place or Time, and in its feminine form مفاعلة mufâ'ala-t, Infinitive of the third conjugation of a triliteral.

مفعلّ (. . . م) muf'all (for muf'alil), Agent, and (for muf'alal) Infinitive in Mîm of the ninth conjugation of a triliteral.

In these five measures the root is obtained by simply cutting off the initial mu, and, where such occur, throwing out the ا of prolongation or doubled consonant, according to the rule given for Class I.

متفعلل (. . . . مت) mutafa'lil, Agent, mutafa'lal, Patient, &c. of a quadriliteral.

متفعّل (. . . مت) mutafa''il, Agent, mutafa''al, Patient, &c. of the fifth conjugation of a triliteral.

متفاعل (. . ا . مت) mutafâ'il, Agent, mutafâ'al, Patient, &c. of the sixth conjugation of a triliteral.

In these three measures the root is obtained by combining with the previous direction the rule given for Class III., in other words, by cutting off the initial mu-ta, besides removing the Alif or Taśdîd, if there should be any.

منفعل (. . . منْ) munfa'il, Agent, munfa'al, Patient, &c. of the seventh conjugation of a triliteral.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

مستفعل (. . . مستـ) mustaf'il, Agent, mustaf'al, Patient, &c. of the tenth conjugation of a triliteral.

In these measures the root is obtained at once by cutting off the initial musta or mun respectively.

Most troublesome for beginners will be the measure
مفتعل (. . تـ . مـ) mufta'il, Agent, mufta'al, Patient, &c. of the eighth conjugation of a triliteral, where the first radical of the root appears between two servile letters.

If the initial letter of such a root is n or s, he will be liable to confound this form with the two previous ones, as it would begin with munta (possibly belonging to the seventh conjugation of a verb with initial t) in the first case, and with musta in the second case. Here he must consider whether musta is followed by three letters, when the word belongs to the tenth conjugation of a root composed of these three letters; or by two, when it appertains to the eighth conjugation of a root composed of these two letters preceded by s.* He must bear in mind, however, that in these measures of the eighth and tenth conjugations, as in the corresponding ones of the fourth and seventh, the Alif of prolongation, represented in the Roman character by â, counts as a full letter, and points to a so-called hollow root, i.e. a root with a weak consonant for its second radical. With regard to words beginning with munta, it will be a comfort for him to learn that the roots with t as a first radical are few in number, and very rarely form the seventh conjugation, so that he may in all safety turn at once to a root beginning with n. Still, to help him over the difficulties which undoubtedly will beset his path, we have placed, as it were, road-marks on it, by freely interspersing the letter م of the Dictionary with general leading-forms, like those given above, the purport and use of which he will now easily understand.

We have here to add a word more about the usual Infinitives with initial ا of the derived conjugations of a triliteral, other than the second, third, fifth, and sixth. Their measures are: fourth, افعال if'âl; seventh,

* Verbal forms may, in this case, sometimes be perplexing at first sight: استبقو for instance, may stand for "they allowed to live" (tenth form of بقى baqiya), or for "they vied to be first" (eight of سبق sabaqa). But the vocalisation of the former would be istabqau (استبقو where the Fathah is remainder of the ى — of the singular استبقى istabqa), that of the latter, istabaqû (استبقو).

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

انفعال infi‘âl; eighth, افتعال ifti‘âl; ninth, افعلال if‘ilâl; and tenth, استفعال istif‘âl. When, by attending to the rules laid down in the previous pages, some practice has been acquired in separating the radical from the servile letters, the student will, of course, turn from such Infinitives directly to the root. But in the earlier stage of his reading he will find it safer mentally to transform them into the corresponding Infinitives in Mîm by substituting the syllable mu for the initial ا (Hamzah), throwing out the ا (Alif) of prolongation, and pronouncing the letters not quiescent with a (Fathah). So fourth, افعال if‘âl changes into مفعل muf‘al; seventh, انفعال infi‘âl into منفعل munfa‘al; eighth, افتعال ifti‘âl into مفتعل mufta‘al; ninth, افعلال if‘ilâl into مفعل muf‘all; and tenth, استفعال istif‘âl into مستفعل mustaf‘al, with which measures of the present Class he will by this time have become familiar. It must, however, be observed that a great number of the Infinitives with initial ا have been given in their alphabetical order, especially such of frequent occurrence or of more or less irregular formation.

By adhering, as we hope, judiciously, if not with slavish rigour, to a system of arrangement with regard to cross-references based on the foregoing rules, it was possible not only to reduce our German model to nearly half its size without omitting anything essential, but even to gain room for several important additions, which we will now shortly point out. Firstly, wherever a reference is given, we did not confine ourselves to quoting the word referred to, unless it occurs in closest proximity, but we accompanied the reference with one or two of the principal significations, so as to spare the student as much as possible time and trouble. Secondly, the number of meanings has frequently been increased. Here we are indebted for many of the English renderings to Chenery's translation of the first 26 Assemblies of Al Ḥarîri, Rodwell's Ḳorân, Palmer's El Baha Zoheir, and Lane's Arabian Nights. Thirdly, the stock of words itself has been not inconsiderably enlarged from the Standard Works of Arabic Literature, particularly those mentioned in the beginning of this Preface, and, to quote a distinguished modern writer of Arabic, from the Maqâmât of Naṣîf al-Yazaji, on which remarkable work compare Chenery's Introduction to Al Ḥarîri, p. 99. Fourthly, the last and most comprehensive addition is the introduction of the Infinitives of the derived conjugations of all verbal roots. In a book of this kind, we did not think it sufficient to designate them merely by their numbers, for to put unerringly the right number upon the right form requires a certain amount of practice which can scarcely be expected from a learner at the outset of his studies; so we thought it incumbent upon us to give either the third person singular masculine of the Preterite or the Infinitive, and as the former course would have frequently necessitated the additional introduction of the Fâ'il or Agent, we decided for the second plan.* Some inconsistency in this and other respects will be noticed in the early part of the Dictionary, namely, with regard to roots beginning with ا, whose derived Infinitives, however, will be mostly found in their alphabetical place, and in the beginning of the letter ب b, when our views on this point were not quite settled. This is a blemish which we must beg to excuse, and reserve ourselves to efface in any later edition.

In bringing this rather lengthy Preface to a close, it only remains for me to offer my cordial thanks to the Publishers, who, with great sacrifice of time and expense, have helped me to carry out my laborious undertaking. Moreover, they have kindly consented to open the field for a first trial of its usefulness by following it up with a Student's Edition of Al-Ḥarîri's celebrated Assemblies—a seed-corn which, by the favour of sun and breeze, may develop into a "Palm-grove of Arabic Poetry," exhibiting the most eminent productions of a rich and interesting literature, if their praiseworthy efforts meet with encouragement. اللّٰه اَعْلَمُ والزّمانُ معلّمٌ "God knows best and time will show."

My thanks are also due to the authorities of the Oriental Institute at Woking for a liberal subscription, and for the opportunity of literary leisure which they are affording me for working on another field—the complete translation, with connecting Commentary, of the Vyâkaraṇa of Pâṇini.

* These Infinitives may frequently be merely theoretical, not actually used as مفعول مطلق maf'ûl muṭlaq, i.e. corroborative or adverbial maṣdar. Nevertheless, they are fit representatives of their conjugation, as their formal relation to the conjugated verb remains always the same.

The Hamzah has not been marked at the beginning of a word, where it has always the Alif for a prop, and is pronounced as a, i, u, preceded by a very slight aspiration, like h in the English word "honour."

The vowel signs have been rendered by a for —َ, i for —ِ, u for —ُ; the long vowels by â for ا—َ, —ٰ, or آ, î for ي—ِ, ai for يْ—َ, û for و—ُ, au for وْ—َ, all to be pronounced as in Italian or German. Final ى—َ is rendered by a, ى—ٰ by ā.

The feminine termination ةَ— is represented by a-t, where the final letter is joined to the body of the word by a hyphen, to show that in modern Arabic it is not to be pronounced, unless the noun is placed in a state of construction with a pronominal suffix, or another noun preceded by the article.

In addition to the Abbreviations in common use the following are employed:—

Ag. for Agent (active participle).
Pat. „ Patient (passive participle).
(m.) „ modern form or expression.
n.u. „ noun of unity.

Where an asterisk (*) is inserted in an article, it means that, besides the forms or meanings given under the heading, others may be looked for in accordance with the indications set forth in the Preface.

ENGLISH-ARABIC DICTIONARY,

For the Use of both Travellers and Students,

By

F. STEINGASS, Ph.D.

"When, about two years ago, Dr. Badger's excellent dictionary came out, to the delight of all lovers and students of the Arabic language, there was no doubt, in the minds of many Orientalists and intending travellers in the East, a certain feeling of regret that the very completeness of that great work excluded the possibility of its being handy and of moderate cost. Both these qualities, handiness and comparative cheapness, are combined in Dr. Steingass's 'English-Arabic Dictionary,' which the enterprising firm of W. H. Allen & Co. has just brought out, and we are happy to say that it fully deserves the high praise for sound scholarship, for minuteness and exactness of detail, which was unanimously accorded to its more ambitious and exhaustive predecessor. As the title clearly indicates, the book is intended both for the traveller and the student; and although, for the benefit of the former, particular attention has been paid to the modern idiom of Egypt and Syria, the older and more classical language is by no means neglected, and even dialectical forms and slang words are found in considerable abundance. Great care has been bestowed upon the correct vowel-points of the imperfects (or, as the author prefers to call them, aorists) of Arabic verbs, and in this respect the dictionary appears to be almost faultless."—Athenæum.

"The mention of the broken plurals and 'aorists' will be especially valued; and the strict reduction of the articles to their simple meanings, and the avoidance of irrelevant matter and significations that ought to be sought for under other headings must be highly commended. If it is not all that it should be, this English-Arabic dictionary is certainly an improvement on its predecessors, and its good paper and type and careful printing will recommend it to those who have due respect for their eyes."—Saturday Review.

"The preface sets forth the sources to which the author has gone for the purpose of making this latest dictionary complete, and we can only briefly say that it fully carries out its aim, and is an excellent work. That it should be so we had reason to expect from the hands of its able compiler."—Home News.

"This is a book much wanted by that large and increasing number of people who are anxious to acquire the Arabic language. The needs of the traveller and resident in the East have been particularly considered by including terms of the modern idiom as spoken at the present day, especially in Egypt and Syria. The dictionary is unquestionably a valuable contribution to Oriental studies, and will be gratefully welcomed."—Homeward Mail.
